Established in 1989,
Maws Fine Foods Ltd has become one of the leading food wholesalers and distributors supplying London and the South-east of England.

Maws provide commercial catering supplies, including ambient, frozen, chilled and non-food wholesale goods, scrupulously selected to create a unique range offering both exceptional quality and remarkable value, delivered with the commitment, reliability and personal service you'd expect from a family-run business.

At Maws we pride ourselves on being large enough to cope yet small enough to care, helping us establish long-lasting customer relationships built on trust and an intimate understanding of each of our customer's needs.

From Michelin-star restaurants and exclusive hotels, to the bistros, bars and cafes found on every high-street, across the south-east region you'll find Maws regularly supplying the very particular staples that keep hundreds of businesses running smoothly day-to-day - not to mention sourcing the speciality items and discovering the culinary innovations that help many of those businesses create the bespoke and signature dishes their reputations rest on.

When it comes to delivering a superlative service we've always been ready to go the extra mile, and though we stock over 1200 separate products, at Maws we've grown our business by providing all our customers with one key ingredient; dependability.

Attaining quality depends on maintaining standards

Maws are as committed to food safety as we are to quality. In fact we don't differentiate the two, which is why we hold a SALSA certification for warehousing, storage and distribution.

Adhering to strict criteria for stock storage and management, we operate from modern, purpose-built premises, located 50 miles from central London. From here we supply the southeast region via our fleet of tracker-monitored, dual-temperature vehicles designed to ensure that each order we take is delivered on time and in optimum condition.

As with our vehicles, our warehousing and chiller-units are not only temperature controlled but monitored and recorded every 10 minutes, ensuring that while in our care, the diversity of comestible items we stock are all maintained at the individual temperatures required.

We love food ...

Our team at Maws has devoted years of expertise to meticulously sourcing the finest products in each wholesale food category, from across the UK, Europe and beyond.

We pride ourselves on seeking out and stocking the very latest products as they arrive on the market, and many of our leading-edge customers depend on our ability to supply these goods to them ahead of their competitors.

We also stock great-value catering staples and high-quality specialist ingredients all produced at commercial volumes by the most reputable international companies. In addition to these, we provide award-winning goods created by small local producers maintaining centuries-old traditions.

Taken as a whole, we're confident you'll find the diversity as well as the quality of our wholesale ranges hard to match.
